With an experienced staff of arborists as well as a unique scientific research facility, Bartlett offers unparalleled expertise, innovation and service in the arboricultural industry. Founded in 1907 by Francis A. Bartlett, the company is now under its third generation of family management. Its corporate headquarters is located in Stamford, Connecticut.

Highlights

- Nearly 100 local offices serving 27 U.S. states, Canada, Great Britain and Ireland.
- A commitment to treating trees and nurturing them back to good health – to achieve a balance of nature, science and environmental responsibility.

- A staff of scientists including Ph.D.s and technicians trained in plant pathology, entomology and physiology that aid our field staff in plant diagnosis and treatment.
- Advanced arboricultural technology like hand-held computers to store landscape data, global positioning systems to map plant locations and a patented root care program that leverages supersonic air tools.
- An unsurpassed safety record in the arboricultural field with a commitment to ongoing training in safety techniques and procedures.
- A tangible plan for reducing our carbon footprint through naturally-based service offerings as well as sustainable operating practices like use of bio-diesel fuels in many trucks and other equipment.
- The 350-acre Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories in Charlotte, North Carolina where new discoveries are made to benefit the industry as well as customers.
- 1,500+ employees worldwide including highly skilled arborists who understand the unique needs of the plant life in the areas in which they operate.

Bartlett Tree Experts is very proud that the Tree Care Industry Association has accredited each one of our offices in the United States. TCIA Accreditation means Bartlett Tree Experts complies with industry standards and has undergone a rigorous application process including on-site audit of their offices throughout the country. The review process, aimed at safeguarding consumers, covers a range of topics including training and certification of employees, customer satisfaction, safety practices and insurance coverage. All of Bartlett's 80+ locations in the U.S. have undergone this stringent evaluation and received accreditation.

Bartlett Tree Experts is one of the founding members of the International Society of Arboriculture. Bartlett Arborists are I.S.A. Certified in the states where they work. Many of our Arborists have been I.S.A. accredited as "Board Certified Master Arborist." This achievement demonstrates a higher level of expertise and knowledge of Arboriculture. This certification raises the bar and puts Bartlett Arborists at the leading edge of tree care.
